Did reviewing your current tax withholding election make you realize that you want to change the amount withheld from your annuity?

You can change your withholding (which will change the net amount of your annuity payment) by filling out a new Form W-4P. This IRS form may be downloaded from the “Forms” section of the website, www.tmrs.com.

Once completed, mail your new Form W-4P to TMRS at P.O. Box 149153, Austin TX 78714-9153 or fax it to 512-476-5576. The Form W-4P needs to be sent to TMRS, not the IRS.

For more information, contact TMRS directly at 1-800-924-8677.

Notes From the City Manager

Sheryl Sculley

Dear City of San Antonio Retirees:

You have probably seen or heard information in the media regarding the City's Health Care and Retirement Benefits Task Force. I wanted to take this opportunity to tell our retirees a little bit about the work of this group.

First I would like to recognize one of your own, Rebecca Waldman, for serving as a member of the Task Force representing retired civilian employees. Task Force participation required a significant investment of both time and energy, and Rebecca's contributions were very valuable to the work of the Task Force.

The Health Care and Retirement Benefits Task Force was created by Mayor Castro last fall and was comprised of employees and retirees representing the police, fire, and civilian workforce, as well as professionals from the private sector. The Task Force met publicly eight times between October 2013 and February 2014 and reviewed information about City employee health care and pension costs. The charge of the Task Force was to proactively evaluate the existing wage and benefit structures and to provide recommendations to the Mayor and City Council on changes that could be made for the financial integrity of the City, now, and in the future.

The Task Force presented its findings and recommendations to the Mayor and City Council on February 19 and again on March 19, 2014. The Task Force found that uniformed health care benefits and contribution levels are richer by a large margin than civilian employees; much greater than peer cities in Texas; and richer than San Antonio private employers.

The Task Force recommended adjusting the uniformed health care benefit and contribution levels to more closely align with those of City of San Antonio civilians and other police, fire, and civilian employees throughout Texas. Other recommendations included maintaining a vigorous wellness strategy, implementing regular dependent audits, and continuing to study pension and uniform pre-funded health care. For more information on the Task Force and its recommendations, please feel free to visit the City's website at www.sanantonio.gov/BenefitsStudyGroup.aspx.

It is important that the City of San Antonio provide competitive benefits that are sustainable long-term to the employees, the organization, and the taxpayers. Thank you for your service to the City of San Antonio and your continued interest in its future.

Sincerely,

Health Care & Retirement Benefits Task Force

As mentioned above, Rebecca Waldman, City retiree and RECOSA board member, was appointed to the 13-member Health Care and Retirement Benefits Task Force. Rebecca made the following remarks to the Mayor and City Council on March 19, 2014.

I want to express my concern for approximately 3,100 civilian retirees with an average monthly TMRS annuity of only $1,269, many of who made the decision to work at the City of San Antonio during a time of lower compensation but significantly better benefits. In addition, I am also concerned about the approximately 7,000 civilian employees who will be the future retirees of the City of San Antonio.

The Task Force found that in San Antonio the uniformed health care benefits are richer by a large margin than civilian employees, peer cities in Texas, and private employers in San Antonio. Comparable peer cities provide the same or similar health care plans to uniform and civilian employees, including the same monthly premiums, deductibles, and out-of-pocket maximums for both groups.

While police officers and firefighters should certainly be well compensated for their important work, why should uniform health care plan design (co-pays, deductibles, out-of-pocket expenses, out-of-network costs, etc.) be so significantly different from that of civilians providing services in the areas of public works, parks maintenance, and other community services?

Why should active public safety employees and their dependents pay no premiums for their health care coverage while some active civilian employees and Pre-65 retirees experienced double-digit percentage increases in their health care premiums in 2013 and significant changes to their plan design in 2014 resulting in diminished coverage and significantly increased out-of-pocket costs?

Police and fire benefits are part of multi-year collective bargaining agreements that are not easily adjusted during the term to reflect the City's changing fiscal realities. The number of positions for uniform employees has grown consistent with the growth in the city's population. Conversely, the number of civilian positions has decreased. As overall health care costs have increased, changes have been made to active civilian and retiree health care plans while uniform plans have stayed the same since 2007. There are fewer civilian active employees as well as fewer civilian retirees to bear those increased costs as the number of retirees with continuing health care is declining, likely because of the increasing cost of coverage and significantly reduced benefits.

It has been said that in the past, generous health care benefits were offered to uniform personnel to offset lower wages. As public safety total wages have increased to some of the highest rates in the state, these generous benefits have continued to exist for uniform personnel at the expense of civilian employees and retirees. It is doubtful that civilians and retirees would have seen such dramatic changes in their benefits had the City been able to make adjustments to uniform benefits. And, if significant uniform health care benefit changes are not made now, civilian employees and retirees will likely continue to see major negative impacts on their health care in the future.

While the Task Force recognized that the Police and Fire Pension Fund is well managed and well funded, it also recommended that the City continue to study active compensation and retirement benefits. The City currently contributes 24.64% of uniform pay to the Fund. This is 7.66% more than the 16.98% (10.78% TMRS and 6.2% Social Security) contribution for civilian employees. Of retired civilians, 72% retired with less than 25 years of service. The average monthly TMRS annuity is $1,331 for a retiree with 20-25 years of service and the cost of the mid-range Pre-65 health care plan for that retiree and spouse is $529 per month, or 40% of their annuity.

The Task Force also recommended that there be further study of pre-funded health care for uniform retirees. In addition to the 24.64% pension contribution, the City contributes 9.4% of wages for uniform pre-funded health care. No such mechanism exists for civilian employees or any other public employees across the state.

As the City of San Antonio looks to find the best balance in budgeting for public safety expenses, serious consideration should be given to providing equitable benefits for both uniform and civilian employees and retirees that are sustainable by the City in the current and future economic realities.
